The practice of celebrating this day in a particular manner, has been sanctioned by the unanimous voice of the American people; nor need I undertake to show you that such celebrations tend to perpetuate a familiar knowledge of the means by which our country was erected into a republic; to inspire us with a true love of liberty and a jealous care of our republican institutions. Festive days in honor of heroes have been celebrated by all nations and throughout all ages, and the fruits arising from their observance are manifold and rich. They carry us back to the days on which the glorious deeds which we celebrate were performed. The virtues which time in its rapid march, perhaps in some degree shrouded in the mists of the past, are brought fresh to our memory. Our souls hold communion with the best spirits of other days; we catch the impulse which stimulated them to deeds of worth, and resolve to imitate the nobleness of their example. Glancing at the records of the past, we behold, in the warmth of our admiration, innumerable examples of the statesman and soldier crowned with honor and trumpeted by fame; but history does not produce a single example...
